City Bill Goes Through.

Of the bills passed the most important was H. B. No. 42, which re-enacts the city sovernment act. This bill is primarily drafted to assist Salt Lake City in its endeavor to secure a better water system, though it takes up by way of smendment many other important features of the present law. It is a voluminous measure, was amended in committee, and contains sixteen printed pages. Senator Hollingsworth attempted an amendment when up for passage, friendly to railroads in the construction of viaducts. The Senate would not consent to further amendments, however. Senator Barber voted against the bill.

Senator Lawrence's bill authorizing dies of the first and second class to issue a scrip was explained by its author and passed. It provides that in the matter of making street and other improvements the city may issue serip against property, sell it at public or private sale. It shall be a lien against the property and draw if per cent interest. Senator Lawrence said it is not an innovation—that St. Paul, Minneapolis and other cities had found

THE HOUSE.

Experiment Station Bill Is Beaten by Fifteen Members.

That the race is not always to the swift nor the battle to the strong was demonstrated yesterday, when fifteen members of the House, with the Speaker on their side, defeated H. B. No. 128, to establish a central agricultural experiment station.

This bill was drawn by the Committee on Agriculture and Horticulture as a substitute for several experiment station bills offered by individual members. It provided that the station should be established somewhere in the series of valleys extending from Box Elder county on the north and to Junb county on the south. It was to be under the control of the board of trustees of the Agricultural college.

Joseph Began It.

The bill came up as a special order at to clock. Joseph began the fight by moving that the Governor be requested to send to the House a copy of the annual financial report of the State Board of Horticulture, and that the bill be aid of Horticulture, and that the bill be ald on the table until the report should be received on the table bills the report about he received.

Mr. Hawley objected, saying that the bill had already been postponed two or three times, and that further delay would deprive the measure of half its value for this season. Stookey also opposed the motion. Mr. Edward favored it on the ground that more intelligent action could be taken when the Board of Horticulture had reported. Austin spoke against the motion. Mr. Luther said that the report of the Board of Horticulture was yow being printed, but contained absolutely nothing that would affect the pending measure. Mr. Richards also opposed the motion. Wilson of Wasatch

A Word for Sanpete.

Mr. Johnson moved to strike out Juab county and put Sanpete county in its place Mr. Thompson said that Millard county wanted to be in on it. Mr. Folton came to the rescue by offering an amendment striking out that clause of the bill limiting the site to the series of valleys from Box Elder to Juab, thus admitting the whole State to the contest. Mr. Miller wanted to know where eastern Utsh would get off on that sort of a proposition.

Mr. Tolton's amendment carried. Joseph then opposed the bill on the ground that its purpose was covered by the law of 1803 for the establishment of arid land experiment stations at five places in the State. Mr. Austin moved to amend the bill by associating the State Land board with the trustees of the Agricultural college in the control of the station. His amendment was adopted.

Mr. McCroa's Amendment.

Mr. McCrea's Amendment.

Mr. McCrea's Amendment.

Mr. McCrea then proposed an amendment. He said he had been requested by some of the country members to move that the station be established in Sait Lake City as possible. He urged that such a station to be valuable, would have to be seen, and that it would be more convenient for the farmers to come to Sait Lake to look at it than to go to a country district. As an amendment to the amendment Mr. Kuchler proposed that the station be located either in Sait Lake country near Sait Lake City, or in Weber country near Ogden.

county, near Sait Lake City, or in Weber county, near Ogden.

Mr. Wilson moved as a substitute that Sait Lake and Ogden be stricken out and Wasatch county inserted. The substitute received no second.

Called It a Jest.

Mr. Wootton made a spirited attack on the amendments, which were he declared, offered as a jest or in order to involve the State in litigation with the smelters. McCrea defended his motion, insisting that it was made in good faith, and that the only reason for opposing it was the selfish desire to put the station in some obscure place, where the farmers would have no opportunity to witness any of the experiments.

A vote was taken on the Kuchler and McCrea amendments, and they were lost. Mr. Edward proposed as an amend-ment that the station be required to conment that the station be required to con-duct experiments in apiculture. After the amendment had been voted down one of the members inquired the meaning of "apiculture" Speaker Hull confessed that he did not know. Mr. Edward kindiy ex-plained that it meant bee raising.

At this time Mr. Maughn did his previous question stunt and the roll was called on the final passage of the bill. The Nays—Allen, Cromar, Curtin, Dailey, Gundry, Joseph, Kuchler, Lyman, McCrea, Miller, Pace, Pancake, Panter, Spencer, Hull—15.

The friends of the bill were jubilant until the Speaker took away their breath by ruling that the bill was lost, because it carried an emergency clause, and had not received two-thirds of the entire vote of the House.

While the astonished agriculturists were gathering their wits together Joseph moved to adjourn, the Speaker rushed the motion through and the sitting ended

Among the petitions received yesterday was one from the indian war veterans, asking that they be given medals of honor in recognition of their services to the State, and that Congress be asked to allow them pay for thirty days, and another from the people of Hennifer, Summit county, who want the road money for their section expended "on the south side of the river," which, needless to say, is their side.

The Evening Session.

At the evening session the question of the vote necessary to pass a bill with an emergency clause attached came up again and the House reversed the ruling of the Speaker. It was on Senate bill No. 45, establishing a sheep commission, that the test came. Although every member of the House present voted for the bill, Speaker Hull declared that it was defeated, because there were not votes enough to carry the emergency clause.

Mr. Wilson appealed from the decision of the Speaker. He insisted that a majority vote was sufficient to pass the bill, with the exception of the emergency clause. The Speaker argued that it was impossible to pass a part of a bill without pussing the whole.

Mr. Thompson said that the First Assembly had invariably held that the lack of a two-thirds majority affected only the emergency clause and not the remainder of the bill.

New Roll-Call Taken.

New Roll-Call Taken.

Before taking the vote on the appeal, the House demanded a new roll-call, in the hone that enough members had come in to make up the requisite majority. But there were still 29 and no more. J. A. Anderson voted no, and gave notice of a motion to reconsider.

Mr. Wilson's appeal from the decision of the chair was then submitted and the chair was then submitted and the chair was not sustained. This resulted in the passage of the bill without the emergency clause and placed Mr. Anderson in the minority. Hence his motion to reconsider was out of order. The majority desired to bring the bill up again when there were enough members present to pass the emergency clause. Accordingly, Wilson gave notice of a motion to reconsider.

Thus the tangle was straightened out.

No. 124, establishing adverse possession of rights of way in seven years, and II. B. No. 123, authorizing the transfer of a $1000 road appropriation in Junb county from one road to another.

Mr. Paneake pertinently inquired as to whether the ruling of the House in regard to emergency clauses was retroactive and would save the experiment station bill, billed in the afternoon under the ruling of Resolutions of Condolence.

An incident of the evening session was the presentation to Representative Thompson of an engrossed copy of the resolutions of condolence adopted by the House on the death of his little son. In a short address, full of feeling, Mr. Thompson expressed his appreciation of the sympathy thus tendered.

Although adjournment was taken until Thursday afternoon, the House will assemble at 11 o'clock this merning to carry out the programme for the observation of Washington's birthday. The exercises will be very interesting, and it is hoped that the public will fill the gallery on this occasion.

The bill to this effect was introduced by request, by Senator Lawrence. He probably knows who drafted it, but he says Chairman Spry did not hand it to him. He says it is based on a decision in Illinois wherein the Inter Ocean of Chicago sought to compel the Associated Press to yield its service to it.

for any bill in their interests."

Representative Miller is working energetically for his bill to do away with the office of District Attorney and turn the prosecution of criminal cases over to the Attorney-General and his deputies. The strongest argument put forward by Mr. Miller is that the bill would save the State 19,000 directly every year and 190,000 indirectly. "The $10,000 would be saved," says Mr. Miller, "by letting out officers whose salaries and expenses would not exceed $5000. The indirect saving would he in the countless cases that fall because of errors in the record. Every criminal case that goes to the Supreme court passes through the hands of three different prosecutors. It is begun by a County Attorney, prosecuted in the District court by the District Attorney and argued before the Supreme court by the Attorney General. Every Ume a new man takes up the case he has to go over the ground anew. This is surely a had principle. Then again we do not get better prosecutors by electing District Attorneys. That was the excuse for passing the law. Experience has shown, however, that the District Attorneys are frequently incompotent despite the high salaries they are receiving I think It is a conservative estimate to say that the Dissrict hat bill."
